Here is what was said about you:

Ali, Adis, Subbu, SY and Siva,

I would like to thank you for your passion, hard work and dedication in preparing right to the final presentation of the National Big App 2.0 / MAMPU Hackathon 2015. You guys collaborated very well and each one contributed with your individual strengths to deliver a great proposal.

I am happy to hear that judges were impressed and delighted with the team's preparedness and the thoroughness and potential value of our solution. We covered end to end capabilities from data acquisition, visualization, analytics to commercialization and business integration and demonstrated to them potential values they can derive from it.

I believe everyone gained crucial first hand understanding and experience on how to solution and pitch to an audience from various background and I hope this learning experience will benefit you in your current or future work.

Last but not least, thank you Siva for your highlighting this opportunity in the first place, contributing ideas, guiding and supporting the team throughout the entire event to the very last day. The team really appreciated your presence and moral support.
